

Cindy A. Johnson
Vice President
Human Resources

Cindy A. Johnson is vice president of Human Resources at Group Health Cooperative, one of the nation's largest consumer-governed health care systems. Johnson joined Group Health in January 2006.

Most recently she served as vice president of Human Resources at Stanford University Hospital and Clinics, an 800-bed, internationally renowned hospital in Palo Alto, Calif. From 1988–2002 Johnson was the vice president of Human Resources at Evergreen Healthcare in Kirkland. For two years she was chair of the Seattle Area Hospital Association, Human Resources Executives. Johnson also managed labor relations at the University of Washington from 1977–1988.

Johnson has a certification from the Harvard Business School and is a Certified Healthcare Executive with Fellow status with the American College of Healthcare Executives. She received a Bachelor of Arts in education from Western Washington University. Her current professional affiliations include the American College of Healthcare Executives, American Society of Healthcare Human Resources Administrators, and the Society for Human Resource Management.

About Group Health

Opened in 1947, Group Health Cooperative is a consumer-governed, nonprofit health care system that coordinates care and coverage. Group Health encompasses medical and specialty centers, hospitals (including a full service community hospital), a nationally recognized research center, and a charitable foundation. Group Health and Group Health Permanente (its multispecialty medical group practice) combined employ more than 9,000 staff.

Please visit the virtual newsroom on our Web site, www.ghc.org under "Newsroom."